P R E F A C E

This is our fourth annual compilation of county property taxes, local option sales taxes and county-wide motor vehicle taxes for Tennessee County governments. Since we instituted this report four years ago, the national inflation rate has increased 32.1 percent. Due to this national increase in costs, counties have been forced to follow this trend by steadily increasing their respective tax rates and looking for new and alternative sources of revenue. While counties have had to increase their tax base during this period, the average tax rate for county taxing districts in Tennessee has increased only 16.6 percent or slightly more than one-half the national rate of inflation. Local sales tax increases, motor vehicle taxes and other local taxes have been levied to help bridge the gap that the property tax could not close. Additionally, federal revenue sharing, reassessment programs, and state shared taxes appropriated by the General Assembly have provided needed revenues for delivery of services to county citizens.

Since our last report two additional counties have enacted or increased their motor vehicle tax or "wheel tax" to provide additional revenues. With the addition of these two, there are now twenty-four counties which levy such a tax, which can now be enacted without approval by the Tennessee General Assembly.

Through recent referendums, six counties have increased their local option sales tax to the maximum rate of 2.25 percent bringing the total to eight. Fifteen other counties have also increased their rates since our last report, including one county which did not previously levy a local sales tax.

It is our hope that this report will be beneficial to county officials in analyzing the trends in local county revenue sources and assist them in comparing their performance with other counties statewide. If CTAS can provide other information relating to this report, please call on us at any time.

TENNESSEE COUNTY PROPERTY TAX RATES

(1977 TAX YEAR)

Property in Tennessee counties in 1977 was taxed based on its assessed valuation. Residential and farm property was assessed at 25% of its appraisal value; industrial and commercial property was assessed at 40% while public utilities were assessed at 55%.

In 1977, counties in Tennessee established a total of 130 taxing districts. This represents a decrease of 2 tax districts from the 1976 total of 132 and a decrease of 5 from the 1975 total of 135. Two taxing districts in Hawkins and Scott counties were dissolved. All counties had set their tax rates as of this report.

County tax rates in 1977 range from a low of $2.00 per $100 of assessed value in Fayette County to a high of $6.30 in Morgan County. The average tax rate for the 130 reporting taxing districts is $3.52 per $100 assessed value while the median tax rate is $3.42 per $100. These figures compare with the 1976 average rate of $3.46 and a median rate of $3.38.

Across the state, tax rates increased in 61 taxing districts, decreased in 23 taxing districts and remained the same as the 1976 tax rate in 46 tax districts. Additionally, 5 tax districts (Campbell, Hancock, Monroe, Shelby, and Washington) have not increased their tax rates in at least the last five years while 3 counties (Fentress, Montgomery, and Weakley) have not increased their rate from the 1974 tax rate.

Increases ranged from $.01 (0.48%) in Obion County (Inside Union City) to $1.65 (50.00%) in Carroll County (Huntingdon SSD). The average increase was $.49 per $100 compared to $.42 per $100 last year.

Decreases ranged from $.02 in Decatur County to $2.55 in Williamson County. However, Williamson County had a property reappraisal which increased the assessed valuation almost twice the figures for the 1976 tax year. The average decrease for the 23 tax districts was $.74 compared to $.32 last year.

On the following pages you will find several tables which summarize the property tax rates which have been set by counties in 1977. Table I shows the total county tax rates with a breakdown into the various county funds and the special school district tax rates. Table II gives a ranking of 1977 tax rates for the 130 reporting tax districts in Tennessee, ranked from low to high. Table III shows the tax districts which lowered their rates from a year ago, ranked by percentage of decrease. Finally, Table IV shows the tax districts which increased their rates from a year ago, ranked by percentage of increase.

It is our sincere hope that the reader finds these tables informative and useful. For any additional information regarding this matter, please contact the CTAS field representative in your area.

COUNTY-WIDE MOTOR VEHICLE TAX LEVIED IN COUNTIES OF TENNESSEE

Counties in Tennessee may deem it necessary to levy a privilege tax on motor vehicles as a supplemental source of revenue. Such a tax is generally called a "wheel tax." With the exception of Metropolitan Nashville-Davidson County, the most common method used to date by counties for the levy of a motor-vehicle tax (wheel tax) has been by passage in the Tennessee General Assembly of a private act with subsequent ratification by local authorities through either (1) a referendum of the people or (2) a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the county governing body or both. However, in the second session of the 89th General Assembly the state legislature enacted a law which would allow an alternative method for counties to enact a wheel tax. Chapter 618, Public Acts of 1976, subsequently codified as T.C.A. 5-802, would allow a county to pass a resolution calling for a public referendum on enacting a wheel tax. The resolution would not have to be presented to the state legislature for its approval, thereby allowing the county to pass this resolution at any time of the year and submit it to the public for approval or disapproval. Subsequent to passage of Chapter 618, an Attorney General's opinion has interpreted the intent of the act to require a public referendum on any wheel tax proposal, whether or not it was passed as private legislation or by court resolution. This ruling effectively does away with the two-thirds vote of the county court as a means of ratifying a wheel tax proposal. To date, Obion County is the only county to enact a wheel tax by this method.

Twenty-three of the ninety-five counties of Tennessee presently levy a privilege tax on all motor-driven vehicles within the county which use the road system of the county exclusive of state or federal road systems. These counties have levied this tax through either Private Acts of the Tennessee Legislature or by court resolution. In addition, Davidson County has enacted a regulatory fee on its motorists by passage of an ordinance through the Metropolitan Council. The amount of tax or regulatory fee levied by these twenty-four (24) counties ranges from $5.00 in Lake and Sumner Counties to $50.00 in Cheatham County while the effective dates vary from 1947 (Robertson County) to 1976 (Obion and Cheatham).

Since the tax is levied on resident motorists within the county for the privilege of using the county roads, one might anticipate that revenues realized from this tax would be allocated to the county road fund for the building, repairing and general operation of the county road department. While this might seem to be a desirable expenditure, few counties, through the medium of private act legislation, have elected to allocate this additional county revenue to their road departments. In fact, only eight (8) counties (Carroll, Cheatham, Crockett, Dickson, Fayette, Gibson, Robertson, and Sumner) specifically allocate all or part of the proceeds to the county highway fund. Carroll, Crockett, Dickson, Gibson, and Sumner Counties earmark all the proceeds to their respective highway funds, Cheatham and Fayette Counties allocate one-half (1/2) of the proceeds to their respective road funds, while Robertson County allocates 1/3 of the revenue realized from this tax to its road department.

The remaining counties take the proceeds from this privilege tax and allocate it for various uses such as debt retirement, education, and ambulance services. Williamson County allocates its revenue to the county general fund with the provision that the county court may, at its discretion, allocate any part or all of the anticipated revenue from this tax to the county highway department.

Table V lists the counties in Tennessee which have levied a privilege tax on motor-driven vehicles, the amount levied, the authority provided and a brief explanation of how the proceeds from this tax are spent. Additionally, Table VI shows the motor vehicle registration by county as reported by the Tennessee Department of Revenue. By using these figures, a county can obtain a rough estimate.

LOCAL SALES TAX IN TENNESSEE COUNTIES

Any county by resolution of its quarterly court and public referendum can levy a county-wide local sales tax at a rate of up to one-half of the rate of the state sales tax which presently is set at 4.5 per cent. This would mean a county-wide local sales tax of up to 2.25 per cent on most sales. This local tax covers the same items as the state tax with the exception of electric power, natural or artificial gas and coal and fuel oil. There exists a maximum tax of $7.50 per single article of personal property provided a rate of 1.50 per cent to 2.25 per cent is in effect within the county. This limitation is reduced to $5.00 on single items if the local tax is set at less than 1.50 per cent.

The proceeds from the county-wide local sales tax are distributed as follows: one-half is distributed in the same manner as the county property tax for schools, including division with any city or special school district on an average daily attendance (ADA) basis; the other one-half is distributed on the basis of where the sale occurred. Collections in incorporated municipalities go to their general funds. Collections in unincorporated areas go to the county general fund. However, a county and city may enter into a contract providing for some other distribution of the half not allocated to schools. For further information on how a county may benefit from this sales tax, please refer to the pamphlet "The Local Sales Tax - Handbook for Local Officials" available from the County Technical Assistance Service or contact the CTAS field representative in your area for details.

As of September, 1977, only three (3) counties had not levied a county-wide local sales tax. Scott County does not have any local sales tax other than state sales tax anywhere within the county while in the other two counties (Anderson and Morgan) selected municipalities have levied a local sales tax.

Of the remaining ninety-two (92) counties which do have a county-wide local sales tax, eight (8) counties levy the maximum of 2.25 per cent, four (4) counties levy a tax of 2 per cent, seven (7) counties levy a tax of 1.75 per cent, fifty-eight (58) counties levy a tax of 1.50 per cent, and fifteen (15) counties levy a tax of 1.00 per cent.

Table VII includes a list of county-wide sales tax for all counties and percentage rates within these counties.
